Northern Lights the Campus Christmas Tree

Thousands, OK about 50 people, came out on a very cold December afternoon to officially light Northern's Christmas Tree. Many people need to be thanked starting with the Business Services, Registrar's Office and the Physical Plant staff for decorating, Steve Jamruszka for organizing the food and for the small ensemble for serenading everyone while they ate.

Cabin Fever Schedules

The Cabin Fever Schedules are available at the Office of Extended Learning.

Student Exit Celebration

Education students who were finishing their student teaching this semester gave their final presentation to family, friends, administrators and supervisors. This exit celebration has become a tradition at Northern and gives the students a chance to share some of the things they learned while student teaching.

Transferability Initiative Status Report

Meeting in Missoula on Friday, November 21, members of the Board of Regents expressed satisfaction and gratitude to the many participants throughout the system whose efforts have enabled the project to achieve its initial goal of delivering 12 disciplines to the public by the end of the year. They also recognized the magnitude of the task—both in terms of what's been accomplished and what lies ahead.

As of last week, the initial 16 faculty learning outcomes councils (FLOCs) have collectively reviewed 3,500 individual courses to identify those courses that stand as equivalents within a given discipline, those that are clearly not equivalent, and those that may appear equivalent to others, but in the final analysis are not. Reporting out on behalf of 13 disciplines from these councils, FLOCs identified 386 equivalent courses from the statewide inventory of 3,500 in those disciplines. FLOC reviews of these courses throughout the state yielded 1,496 newly numbered and titled courses—an array that encompasses both unique and equivalent courses in these disciplines.

Campuses throughout the system also owe their thanks to UM's Tim Irmen, a programmer/analyst working in the office of Loey Knapp, Assistant Chief Information Officer, for creating an automated script for registrar's offices using Banner to export data from our well-known Excel worksheets into the Banner systems at those campuses. This script has significantly reduced data-entry workloads for campuses as they convert older numbers and titles to the new common course numbers.

Wal-Mart Donates Christmas Tree

Our local Wal-Mart store donated a beautiful twelve foot tall Christmas tree to the campus. This tree is located in the library for everyone to enjoy. Several administrators took a few minutes out of their busy schedule to pose for this photo which will be sent to Wal-Mart along with a nice thank you letter.

Heating System Fails

The heating system in Donaldson Hall failed this week. The decision was made to not patch the old system. The building is being winterized in an effort to minimize the effects of the cold. Everyone is encouraged to get anything they have in storage out of the building that might be damaged by the cold. This system failure helps to confirm that the right decision was made to get people out of the building before winter.

Baskets for the Ball

Our goal for this ball is to increase the number of scholarships by increasing the number of program and department Silent Auction baskets. This lofty goal cannot be reached without all of us working together to donate auction items. These program and department “basket” donations are used for the Silent Auction portion of the event. In addition to MSU-Northern’s contributions dollars are raised from the generous donations from the Havre community, businesses and individuals.

There are rumors that Virgil Hawkinson is already working on framed photographs for his program’s donation—back by popular demand from last year! Student Services (with the creative mind and nimble fingers of Shauna and Cindy) is getting thread and needles ready for another awesome rag quilt.

Please consider influencing your colleagues to get together and see what kind of unique, crazy, fun items you can put together to attract a potential bidder’s attention and generate bids ($$) that make it possible to provide more scholarships for our students. Of course, if you would like to donate something individually, your generous contribution is very welcome!

Due to the work needed to organize and highlight all the energy generated by the campus to support the ball, it is important to have donated items turned into Shauna (Library 103) by January 10, 2009. This year, your generosity and creative natures will be exposed in a dynamite booklet that lists all the items available at the Silent Auction. Even more exciting is that your donations will be displayed on the website for a few weeks before the actual event!

Computer Tips

Tis the Season... for Holiday Scams (part 1)

By Marianne Hoppe

It's the time of year when we all surf the Web seeking perfect gifts. And during this season we also like to think of those less fortunate than ourselves. Hackers know this, so smart shoppers know how to spot popular scams before they get taken.

Naming a star

What better gift could you give someone than the symbol of the first Christmas -- a star? Various companies claim you can name a star for between $20 and $150. These companies will send you a certificate with the name and location of "your star" and promise that your star's name will be in a star registry.

The problem is... Stars are named by the International Astronomical Union -- and they aren't selling. Anyone else who claims to be able to name stars has no legal standing. When they say your star is going into a "registry," they mean whatever registry they made up -- not the official catalog that is kept by the IAU and used by all astronomers.

According to the IAU's Web site, "such 'names' have no formal or official validity whatever. Like true love and many of the other best things in human life, the beauty of the night sky is not for sale, but is free for all to enjoy."

Spam solicitations

Never buy anything from an unsolicited e-mail. No matter how good a deal you think you are getting, it is not worth the risk of losing your money or giving any of your information to a possible scam artist. By responding to these e-mails, you are begging to receive so much spam as to make your inbox unusable, because this lets the spammers know that you have a working e-mail address. You are also proclaiming yourself easily fooled and a great target for any number of Internet scams -- such as identity theft.

Some spam e-mails attempt to lure victims to dummy e-commerce sites in hopes of gleaning credit card numbers and passwords. By mimicking legitimate sites, they fool unsuspecting shoppers into giving up information as they make what they think are legitimate purchases. These e-mails look real, often containing legitimate company logos and live links. NEVER click on links in unsolicited e-mails!

Tune in next week for more tips on holiday scams!
